

Disease Bingo

Directions:

1. When instructed to by your teacher, cut up the disease sheet given to you.
2. Pick 16 cards to use for the first round of disease bingo, and place them on your game board. Be sure to place the “disease free” cards strategically to help you win.
3. This game is the opposite of regular bingo. When your teacher draws a disease and announces it, remove it from your board. Once you have removed four connected diseases, stand up and declare, “I’m sick.” You are then out for the rest of the round. Diseases can be connected vertically, horizontally or diagonally. The student who can eliminate the most diseases from their board without “getting sick” is the winner. In some cases there will not be a winner. This illustrates how difficult it can be to avoid diseases.
4. Before beginning a new round, choose different diseases and/or rearrange your diseases and disease-free spaces.
