

Communicable Disease Profile

Directions:

1. Choose a communicable disease to research. No two students should choose the same disease, so be sure to have the disease approved by your teacher.
2. Research to learn what causes the disease, how the disease can be transmitted, signs and symptoms of the disease, techniques to prevent contracting the disease, and common treatments for the disease.
3. Write a one-page fact sheet on the disease which includes all of the above information.
4. Your fact sheet will be bound together with your classmates' fact sheets to create a Communicable Disease Fact Book for students to browse through and/or read when time allows.
